</kia-dealer-vero-beach-fl/>

Kia of Vero Beach — the only Kia dealer in Indian River County. Telluride, Sportage, EV9 in stock. New, used, financing & factory service on US-1.

Indian River County's Only Kia Dealer

If you live in Vero Beach, Sebastian, Fellsmere, or anywhere along the Treasure Coast, Kia of Vero Beach is your hometown Kia store — and the only one in Indian River County. Every other Kia dealership means a drive: north to Melbourne or south to Fort Pierce. We're right here on US-1, at 1105 S US Hwy 1, which means test drives, oil changes, recall work, and warranty service all happen close to home instead of a county or two away.

That's not a marketing line. Pull up a map of Kia franchised dealers and you'll find a real gap between Melbourne and Fort Pierce. Vero Beach sits in the middle of it. Being the single Kia point of contact for Indian River County is a responsibility we take seriously — it shapes how we stock the lot, how we handle service appointments, and how we treat people who are going to see us again at the grocery store.

Popular Kia Models In Stock

Florida families, retirees, and commuters all shop differently, so we keep a broad mix of new Kia inventory on the ground. A few models move fastest here, and each one suits a different kind of Treasure Coast driver:

- Kia Telluride — The three-row SUV that put Kia on a lot of shopping lists. Seating for up to eight, a genuinely comfortable third row that adults can actually use, and enough cargo room for a beach weekend or a Disney run up I-95. It's popular with growing families and snowbirds alike, and the available all-wheel drive and higher ground clearance give it a planted, confident feel in summer downpours. If you're cross-shopping it against a Highlander or a Pilot, the things people tend to notice on a Telluride are the cabin materials and the standard feature count at each trim — bring your real-world checklist and drive it back to back.

- Kia Sportage Hybrid — A right-sized SUV with hybrid efficiency that pays off on daily drives between Vero, Sebastian, and Fort Pierce. It's roomy for its footprint, easy to park, and the hybrid powertrain is built for exactly the kind of stop-and-go US-1 driving most of us actually do. For a household that wants one practical, fuel-conscious vehicle without stepping all the way up to a three-row, the Sportage Hybrid is the one we most often point people toward first.
- Kia K5 — For drivers who still want a sedan, the K5 makes a strong case: sharp styling, a long standard feature list, a roomy back seat, and the kind of fuel economy that makes a daily US-1 commute painless. Sedans have gotten harder to find as the market chased SUVs, which is part of why the K5 stands out — it's a comfortable, efficient, lower-to-the-ground alternative for people who simply prefer to drive a car.
- Kia EV9 — Kia's flagship all-electric three-row SUV. It's big, quiet, quick off the line, and a serious option for Treasure Coast households ready to go electric without giving up space or seats. Available all-wheel-drive configurations, fast-charging capability, and a genuinely usable third row make it one of the few EVs that works as a true family hauler. If you've been curious about electric but worried about fitting car seats, gear, and a road trip, the EV9 is worth a long test drive.

Trims, colors, and packages shift week to week, so the right move is to view our new Kia inventory for what's actually on the ground today. Looking for value? Our used and certified pre-owned vehicles are worth a look too — certified pre-owned Kias go through a multi-point inspection and carry extended coverage, which can be a smart way into a Telluride or Sportage. And if you don't see the exact trim or color you want, ask. We can often locate a vehicle through the network or tell you honestly when something is worth waiting for.

The Kia Warranty Advantage

One of the strongest reasons people choose Kia is the warranty, and it's worth stating accurately so you know exactly what you're getting. New Kia vehicles come with:

- 10-year / 100,000-mile limited powertrain warranty — covering the engine and transmission components for the original owner.
- 5-year / 60,000-mile limited basic warranty — bumper-to-bumper coverage for the broader vehicle.

Whichever limit comes first applies, and powertrain coverage terms differ for second owners — your salesperson will walk you through the specifics for the exact vehicle you're considering. The takeaway: Kia's coverage is among the most generous in the industry, and because we're the only Kia service center in the county, honoring that warranty is something you can do right here in Vero Beach rather than driving out of town for factory-trained work.

Why Buy Local in Indian River County

It's tempting to treat a car purchase as a one-day event and shop wherever the first quote lands. But a vehicle is a relationship that lasts years, and most of that relationship happens after the sale — at the service drive. That's where buying local quietly pays for itself.

Consider the math of driving out of the county for service. The round trip from Vero Beach to a Kia dealer in Melbourne or Fort Pierce runs well over an hour of driving, and that's before you account for traffic on US-1 or I-95. Multiply that by the routine touchpoints a car needs — oil changes, tire rotations, multi-point inspections, the occasional recall, brake and battery work as the car ages — and you're easily looking at a dozen or more trips over the life of the vehicle. Years of those drives add up to full days of your time, real fuel and wear costs, and the standing hassle of arranging a ride home or killing an afternoon in a waiting room two towns away. Keeping all of that within a few minutes of home is not a small convenience; over the years you own the car, it's one of the most valuable parts of the deal.

There's a less tangible side to it as well. When the people who sold you the car are the same people you'll see at a local restaurant or your kid's ballgame, the incentives line up differently. We're not a stop on the interstate hoping you never come back — we're the only Kia store in the county, and we plan to be here for your next car and the one after that. That long view shapes how we handle a tricky warranty question, how we price a repair, and whether we tell you a problem can wait. Buying local isn't charity; it's choosing the dealer who has the most reason to get it right.

Local Financing, Done Transparently

Financing is where car buying earns its bad reputation, and we'd rather address that directly than pretend it doesn't happen. Our goal is simple: you should understand every number on the page before you sign.

So ask for your numbers in writing — the price, the APR, the term, and every line item — before you sign anything. Every add-on is optional: extended service contracts, coverage products, and accessories are choices, not requirements, and "no" is a complete answer. If a number isn't clear, stop and ask for it spelled out. A good deal is one both sides understand, and you're entitled to see exactly how it's built.

We work with a range of lenders, which helps whether your credit is excellent or you're rebuilding. You can get a head start before you ever visit the lot by completing our secure online finance application — it takes a few minutes and lets us have realistic numbers ready when you arrive.

Service & Parts Under One Roof

Buying the car is the beginning of the relationship; servicing it is the rest of it. Our on-site service department handles everything from routine oil changes and tire rotations to warranty repairs, recall work, and major mechanical jobs — all performed by technicians trained on Kia vehicles, using genuine Kia parts.

Because we're the only Kia dealer in Indian River County, this is the closest factory-authorized Kia service you'll find without leaving the area. No more scheduling a half-day around a drive to Melbourne or Fort Pierce for a covered repair. You can learn more about our service department or schedule a service appointment online in a couple of clicks. Need a specific part? Our parts counter can order genuine Kia components and accessories for your vehicle.

Going Electric on the Treasure Coast

If the EV9 has caught your eye, the practical question is usually charging — and the honest answer is that it fits Treasure Coast life better than most people expect. The bulk of EV charging happens overnight at home on a standard Level 2 setup, the same kind of 240-volt circuit a dryer or pool pump uses. For a household with a garage or carport, plugging in at night and waking up to a full battery means most days you simply never think about charging at all. Daily round trips around Vero Beach, Sebastian, and Fort Pierce sit comfortably within a single charge with plenty to spare.

For longer hauls — a run up I-95 to Orlando or down to South Florida — the EV9 supports fast DC charging, and public charging along the I-95 and Florida's Turnpike corridors continues to expand, with the network across the Treasure Coast growing steadily year over year. We're glad to walk through what a home charging setup looks like, what to expect on a road trip, and whether an EV genuinely fits your driving before you commit. If electric isn't the right call for how you drive, we'll tell you that too — the Sportage Hybrid exists for exactly that middle ground.

Frequently Asked Questions

Is Kia of Vero Beach really the only Kia dealer in Indian River County?

Yes. Kia of Vero Beach is the only franchised Kia dealership in Indian River County. The nearest alternatives are in Melbourne to the north and Fort Pierce to the south, both a county away. For new Kia sales, certified pre-owned, financing, and factory-authorized service, we're your closest option.

How do I get to your dealership from Sebastian or Fort Pierce?

From Sebastian, drive south on US-1 about 15 miles into south Vero Beach. From Fort Pierce, drive north on US-1 into Vero Beach until you reach the 1100 block of S US Hwy 1. Either way, US-1 takes you straight to our door at 1105 S US Hwy 1.

Do you carry the all-electric Kia EV9, and can it be charged locally?

We stock the Kia EV9 as availability allows — call ahead to confirm current inventory. The EV9 supports fast DC charging and standard Level 2 home charging, and public charging options continue to expand across the Treasure Coast. We're happy to explain charging at home versus on the road and which setup fits your driving.

What exactly does the Kia warranty cover?

New Kia vehicles include a 10-year/100,000-mile limited powertrain warranty and a 5-year/60,000-mile limited basic (bumper-to-bumper) warranty, whichever comes first. Powertrain terms differ for subsequent owners. We'll review the specific coverage for any vehicle you're considering, and we honor that warranty right here in Vero Beach.

Should I lease or buy my next Kia?

It depends on how you drive. Leasing typically means lower monthly payments and a new vehicle every few years, with mileage limits to plan around. Buying builds equity and has no mileage cap, which suits higher-mileage drivers and anyone who keeps a car long-term. Tell us your annual mileage and how long you like to keep a vehicle, and we'll lay out both paths honestly.

Can I start financing before I visit?

Absolutely. Our secure online finance application takes a few minutes and lets us prepare realistic numbers before you arrive, so your time at the dealership is shorter and clearer.
