Your Toyota Dealer in Vero Beach — Not 15 Miles Away

There's a Toyota store right here in Vero Beach. It sits on South US-1, a few minutes from Riverside Park and the Barber Bridge, and it carries the same new Camrys, RAV4s and Tacomas you'd drive to Fort Pierce or Melbourne to find. So before you point the car south toward Bev Smith in Fort Pierce — roughly fifteen miles each way down US-1 — or north toward Melbourne, it's worth knowing the closer option is the well-stocked one.

Toyota of Vero Beach is at 1075 S US Hwy 1, Vero Beach, FL 32962. If you live near Ocean Drive, off Indian River Boulevard, out by McKee Botanical Garden, or up toward Sebastian and the inlet, you're a short drive away. Call us at 772-569-8000 or browse current inventory below.

New Toyota Inventory in Vero Beach

We keep a deep lineup of the Toyotas Indian River County actually buys — built for school runs on 27th Avenue, weekend trailers to Sebastian Inlet, and the long flat stretches of A1A.

- Toyota Camry — now a hybrid across the lineup, which matters when you're commuting the length of US-1 and watching fuel prices.
- Toyota RAV4 — the compact SUV that fits a Vero Beach garage and a Costco run with equal ease, available in hybrid and plug-in hybrid trims.
- Toyota Tacoma — the truck for boat ramps, job sites and the occasional dune-edge parking at the inlet.
- Toyota Grand Highlander Hybrid — three rows of room for families who've outgrown the midsize SUV but still want hybrid efficiency.

We also stock Corolla, Highlander, Tundra, 4Runner and the Sienna minivan. Hybrid availability moves quickly, so if a specific trim or color matters to you, check the live lot and reach out — we can often locate or reserve an incoming unit.

Why Buy Local

The drive matters more than people admit. A round trip to Fort Pierce is about thirty miles and the better part of an hour with traffic on US-1; Melbourne is farther still. That distance doesn't end when you sign — it follows you to every oil change, every recall, every warranty question. Buying where you live means service is a few minutes away, not a half-day errand.

There's also the practical side of being a neighbor. When you buy from a store that sees you at Riverside Park, at the Friday-night farmers market, at the same gas station off Indian River Boulevard, the relationship doesn't reset after the sale. We answer the phone when you call. We know the roads your car runs on. And when you bring someone in to look at their first car or their tenth, you're talking to people who live the same fifteen-minute radius you do.

We're not asking you to buy local out of sentiment. We're saying the closer store is also the convenient one, the one that's easier to get back to, and the one with the inventory to make the trip across town unnecessary.

Financing — A Finance Office That Explains Itself

The finance office is where car-buying earns its bad reputation. Long waits, surprise add-ons, numbers that shift between the showroom and the desk. Ask us how we approach it — and ask any question before you sign.

A few things worth asking about at Toyota of Vero Beach:

- Ask to see the numbers before you sit down. Price, rate, term and any product — request it laid out plainly so you know what's in your contract.

- Ask what's optional. Protection plans, warranties and accessories are offered and explained — ask which ones you can decline and how that affects your price.
- Ask about lenders. We work with Toyota Financial Services and several banks and credit unions, so ask how we can match an approval to your situation.

You can start your financing online and walk in with the heavy lifting done.

If your credit is somewhere in the middle — and most people's is — that's a normal conversation here. Ask us what you may qualify for.

Trade-In — Know Your Number Before You Arrive

Your current vehicle is worth real money toward your next one, and in Florida it can also lower the sales tax you pay on the new purchase. The first step is knowing what your trade is actually worth.

Ask for a market-based figure on your vehicle — often in minutes. Bring the car in, we confirm condition in person, and the appraised value comes straight off your deal.

Get your trade appraised →

We appraise any make, not just Toyotas, and you're welcome to sell us the car even if you don't buy one from us the same day.

Service After the Sale

A dealership is only as good as the third year of ownership. Our factory-trained technicians service Toyotas with genuine Toyota parts, handle warranty and recall work, and keep records that follow your VIN — so your maintenance history stays clean for resale.

Routine oil changes, tire rotations, brakes, batteries, multi-point inspections and major scheduled service all happen right here on South US-1, minutes from home. No round trip to another county every time the maintenance light comes on.

Frequently Asked Questions

What are your hours? Toyota of Vero Beach is open {{HOURS}}. Sales and service hours differ slightly, so call 772-569-8000 to confirm before a same-day visit.

How do I get there from Sebastian or Fort Pierce? From Sebastian, take US-1 south for about fifteen minutes; we're on the right at 1075 S US Hwy 1, past the main Vero Beach stretch. From Fort Pierce, take US-1 north roughly fifteen miles into Vero Beach — we'll be on your left. The dealership sits directly on US-1, so it's hard to miss in either direction.

Do you have hybrids in stock? Yes. We regularly stock Camry, RAV4, Highlander and Grand Highlander hybrids, plus the RAV4 Plug-in Hybrid when available. Hybrid demand is high, so inventory moves quickly — check our new inventory or call to confirm a specific trim, and we can often reserve an incoming unit for you.

How does the trade-in process work? Get your trade appraised with our appraisal tool — ask for a market-based figure on your vehicle, often in minutes. Bring the vehicle in so we can verify its condition, and the confirmed value applies directly to your new purchase — which in Florida also reduces the sales tax you owe. We appraise all makes, and you can sell to us even without buying the same day.

Can I get financing with average credit? Yes. We work with Toyota Financial Services and multiple banks and credit unions, which lets us look at approvals across a wide range of credit situations — not just excellent credit. Start your financing online and ask us what you may qualify for.
